

Basingstoke Gazette
Thursday 30 April 2009

Awards highlight home working

REMOTE Employment has announced the launch of the Remote Worker Awards, to highlight how remote and home working benefits the environment and employees' quality of life.

The Remote Worker Awards is designed to be a "life changing" awards scheme, the website specialising in flexible, remote and home working, claims.

Prizes include a new career and a Penthouse Garden Office, while one winner will walk away with their very own home based franchise worth £15,000 and lots of other entrants will start a new life with a home business, promises Remote Employment.

The Remote Worker Awards comes at a time when thousands of people across the UK are faced with job losses or reduced hours. The awards aims to raise awareness for remote and home working as an alternate solution to redundancy and the traditional nine-to-five office routine.

There are award categories for people who want to work from home with their own business as well as people who already work remotely or work from home.

The Work From Home Award will give several entrants the chance to change their career with a toolkit to start their own business. They will also receive other prizes to ensure working from home is more efficient and enjoyable.

The Helen O'Grady Special Award (presented to a special person who is interested in changing the lives of children and young people in their area) will grant one person their own home-based franchise worth £15,000.

The Vivid Green Award will set one lucky winner up with their own £10,000 Penthouse Garden Office.

Employees who currently work remotely or work from home will also be given the chance to impress their employer and work colleagues by winning The Remote Worker and Home Worker Awards.

All freelancers, self-employed consultants and project contractors are encouraged to enter The Freelance Consultant Award. To top it all, The Open University Skills Award will give one deserving winner a brand new career with a £2,000 Open University prize and two runners-up great new job prospects with learning vouchers worth £500.

For more information, call 0844 800 8355 or 020 8133 6329 or visit remoteworkerawards.com

● Right: Working from home is an alternative solution to redundancy and the traditional nine-to-five office routine, as highlighted in the launch of the Remote Worker Awards